The name couldn't describe this company any better... Westman Premier Homes (WPH). This premier company has been building homes around Western Manitoba for over 10 years now. Founded by Matt Bootsman, WPH has grown and has many partners helping run this every evolving company.

Starting as a builder, WPH has created quality homes for its customers since the beginning. They work hand in hand with their customers from the design of their custom home, right until the keys are handed over. Their transparent estimates give customers peace of mind. That's why it made sense for them to create their Restoration and Renovation division, explains Scott Bromley, General Manager and Partner. From working with insurance providers to doing clean up, WPH is right there with their customers along the way.

With their professional red seal trades on staff, you are in good hands after you have experienced damage, flooding or a fire. As well, no one is better to sit down with and go over a renovation project you have in mind for your home. They will walk you through the design, the demolition, to the finished project. Their years of experience and training shine through in their work.

Since WPH has quality trained staff, their latest divisions only made sense. Electrical Services and Plumbing and Heating are the latest segments to join Westman Premier Homes group. No job is too big or too small, from handyman services all the way to wiring your entire home. Do you have a new home theatre system but don't know where to start? Call them for their expertise! WPH Plumbing and Heating division is there for customers who need a new furnace or hot water tank installed, maintenance throughout the home or to getting their home more energy efficient.

Westman Premier Homes is a Certified Master Builder. To become a Certified Master Builder, you must be a Certified Housing Professional first and have employed a senior decision maker for a minimum of 5 years. The program ensures ongoing commitment to furthering education by instilling those involved to complete required courses plus electives. To maintain your designation, they must continue to complete a minimum number of hours to professional development annually. This proves their commitment to their trade and ensures their customers the confidence in hiring them to build their home.

When it comes to building and maintenance of your home, Westman Premier Homes years of experience and training gives their customers the confidence of a job well done.
